

Guy Cocker

Features Editor, GameSpot UK

Guy Cocker's expertise lies in video games, television and home cinema. He has combined his passion for all three to create a hi-tech haven in the GameSpot UK office. When he's not trying to convince people that playing video games for a living actually involves hard work, he is usually travelling around the world to cover the latest developments from the fast-moving world of electronic entertainment.

Guy has written for a variety of home cinema, technology and gaming titles, and now holds the position of Features Editor on GameSpot UK. With his finger on the pulse of worldwide gaming, he is involved with news, previews and reviews for the site in both written and video form. With an in-depth knowledge of gaming past, present and future, he engages directly with both the industry he covers and the 3.5m people who visit the site.
